THREE EFFECTIVE Visualisation

TECHNIQUES TO CHANGE YOUR LIFE

What do you think is the difference between a dreamer and a doer?

One word: confidence.

Let's face it, if you're confident that you'll eventually achieve your goals because you are willing to do whatever it takes to get there, then you will no doubt achieve it. However, if you're not confident about yourself and you don't think your plans will pan out, then you won't really feel the need to take any steps to achieve your goals.

Confidence is the key to making something of yourself. It's having the inner confidence that whatever happens around you, may it hail or shine, your confidence remains rock hard. If you believe in yourself that you will eventually achieve your goals, you'll reach it. One of the most effective ways of achieving your goals is through Effective Visualisation.

So what is Effective Visualisation?

Arnold Schwarzenegger is an example of a big-time celebrity who used the power of visualisation to achieve his bodybuilding goals.

Schwarzenegger didn't just go to the gym every day and worked out, he actually visualized his success. He said "I had this fixed idea of growing a body like Reg Park's. The model was there in my mind; I only had to grow enough to fill it... The more I focused in on this image and worked and grew, the more I saw it was real and possible for me to be like him."

Schwarzenegger conditioned his mind and convinced himself that he was capable of achieving his goal, he firmly believed that he would be able to do it and that's exactly what happened.

He also said, "What you do is create a vision of who you want to be - and then live that picture as if it were already true."

This is the power of Effective Visualisation.

You need to visualise your desired result over and over again as if it had already taken place. There's no room in your head for doubting yourself and your capabilities because if you do this, you are unconsciously sabotaging your success.

Effective Visualisation is a technique that'll help you get over the barrier of self-doubt. You need to visualise and actually see yourself achieving your goals and you need to envision how you're going to do it in the most detailed manner as possible. The more you visualise your success, the more it'll transcend to reality because the power of the mind, if harnessed the right way can make a huge impact in your life.

What do you think is the difference between a successful person and a loser?

“You need to visualise your desired result over and over again as if it had already taken place. There’s no room in your head for doubting yourself and your capabilities because if you do this, you are unconsciously sabotaging your success.”

It’s two words: mind power.

The big reason why the rich get richer and the poor get poorer is because the rich people have such a powerful mindset – they are willing to do whatever it takes to get to the top and they can see themselves right at the top even though they’re not even there yet. They condition their minds over and over again to the fact that no matter what happens, they will eventually achieve the results they want. Here are four effective Visualisation techniques you might want to implement in your life:

Be in the moment

If for example, you have a meeting with some prospective sponsors or investors, you need to visualise yourself going to the meeting and winning that pitch. What do the potential sponsors or investors look like?

What does the meeting place look like?

Can you picture the surroundings around you?

Can you hear their voices?

Imagine how calm and collected you are going to that meeting and shaking their hands. Imagine the potential sponsors and investors intently listening to your pitch. By doing this simple practice you’ll be able to go that meeting with rock hard confidence because you’ll be able to transcend that imagery into real life since you’ve gone over the scenario in your head over and over again.

Focus on you

Besides visualising the surroundings you need to effectively visualise yourself going into that meeting.

What clothes are you wearing during this meeting?

Is your posture on point?

Do you look confident enough to secure the deal?

How calm and collected are you?

How is your tone of voice during the pitch?

Are you injecting a sense of humour to make the sponsors feel more comfortable with you as a person?

Have a backup plan

Visualising yourself nailing the deal is definitely a must, but you need to also have a plan B just in case things don’t go according to plan – at least you have a backup plan. Having a plan B or even a plan C will be good for you in the long run because it enables you to be a bit more prepared. Think of possible ways the potential sponsors or investors would react negatively to your pitch and then think of ways in advance that you’ll be able to address their concerns.

Practice how you would react to their negative response and then repeat that scenario in your head over and over again so that when the time finally comes and they react negatively to your pitch, you’re 100% confident that you have the answers they are looking for because you have visualised this scene several times.

In conclusion

Your goal here is to strongly instill the experience you want in your mind so that this will transcend into real life and you’ll be able to embody the version of yourself that you know in your heart can be.

You need to make sure you note down everything you see and hear in your head and go over it again and again. Before you know it, you’ll be well on your way to nailing down that life-changing pitch.

INTRODUCING WINDY KREJCI

Vindy is a half Vietnamese and half Czech model who's currently based in the Czech Republic. She won the title Miss Karkulka Mácha in 2015, she placed 3rd runner up in the Miss Caddy 2014 pageant and she also placed top 10 in the national beauty pageant, Miss Czech Republic.

Vindy Krejčí initially never had any plans of becoming a model, but when opportunity knocked on her door – she decided to take a chance and now she couldn't be happier with her decision. Vindy is a half Vietnamese and half Czech model who's currently based in the Czech Republic. She was fifteen when she appeared in her first fashion show and she loved the experience so much that she went on to appear in more fashion shows. Besides modeling, Vindy has also done quite well in the pageant world, she won the title Miss Karkulka Mácha in 2015, she placed 3rd runner up in the Miss Caddy 2014 pageant and she also placed top 10 in the national beauty pageant, Miss Czech Republic. GEQ Magazine recently caught up with Vindy to discuss her journey in the modeling industry and here's what went down:

Tell us your name and something about yourself?

My name is Vindy Krejčí, I'm 22 years old and I'm based in the Czech Republic, where I've lived all my life. I'm half Vietnamese and half Czech and I'm currently studying in university. In the year 2014, I started building my modeling portfolio, I was 16 years old at the time. I was working with a few modeling agencies, however, I was still a freelancer. I've never dreamt about becoming a model, it just happened and now I really love my job. To be around creative people and watch how they make something amazing together is great! But I knew it's a time-limited business and I wanted to also focus on building my skills and experiences in various fields. As time went I eventually got an offer to work in modeling and production agency called FA FASHIONABLE. I also took part in several beauty pageants in my country where I was fortunate enough to have had success. I won the Miss Karkulka Mácha 2015 pageant and I placed 3rd runner up in Miss Caddy 2014. In 2016, I placed top 10 in the national beauty pageant, Miss Czech Republic. In 2017 I got an offer to represent Vietnam in an international beauty pageant called Miss Global 2017. Regardless of my height, I placed in the top 20 and won the title Miss Global Photogenic.

What does it mean to you to be a model?

Opportunity. Being a model is flexible – it gives me freedom. What I like the most about being a model is that each project is different. Different styling, different visage, another team of incredibly creative people. I enjoy it every time I get a new transformation. On this basis, I present the "personality" they have created from me. I also enjoy the opportunity to travel and work with people from all over the world.

What do you think is the biggest challenge to modeling?

I would say that anyone who wants to get into modeling must be durable, have healthy self-esteem and be balanced with him/herself. He or she needs to be able to handle stress and have thick skin. I think "commercial" models have it a little easier than fashion models. Their magic is made up of their entire personality, their face, and their character. And so they can be forgiven a few centimeters at the waist for example.

Have you always wanted to be in the modeling industry?

No, not really. As a child, I heard negative things about the modeling industry. But when I was fifteen and I appeared in my first fashion show, I started to think differently. When I did my first catwalk, I suddenly had the urge to join more shows. I eventually met an amazing, creative man who motivated me with his story and personality. Today he is my future fiancé, Luděk Šrmešník.

What's your personal mission in life?

To be a role model for my children and other women. I'm not a feminist, I'm not a careerist, and I'm not a housewife either – I'm a bit of everything. We women are very capable, hardworking and imaginative. Our empathy and intuition make us unique. And I admire every woman who can do what she loves and follow her heart.

What has been the most memorable experience of your career so far?

The most memorable experience of my career was participating in the international beauty pageant, Miss Global in Cambodia. It was in 2017 and since I was half Vietnamese, I represented Vietnam. I was truly honoured to represent one of my nationalities. There were over 60 finalists from all over the world and the organisers took great care of us. I didn't see it as a competition, I saw it more like an experience. I was myself and it paid off, I won Miss Global Photogenic and ranked among the top 20.

Who have been the most interesting people you've met so far?

Definitely my man! There's also pageant coach Mommy G and choreographer Chieko Hidaka, whom I met in Miss Global. Their personal charm is unreal. Both were strict but very cordial at the same time. I'm very grateful for all the help they gave me.

What are your future plans?

It may sound a little lax, but so far, it has always worked out even though I never planned anything. So I just want to let things flow.

TOP FIVE SWIMSUIT Trends

YOU'LL SEE NEXT SUMMER

There's no doubt that summer will look and feel a lot different this year especially with all the restrictions in place because of Coronavirus, but that doesn't mean we can't get excited about cool new swimsuit trends, even if we're just wearing them in the comfort of our very own backyard. Swimsuit trends change every year and next summer they are definitely full of colours and different styles. Below are the top 5 swimsuit trends you will probably see next summer.

1. Floss Bikinis

This is one of the coolest swimsuit trends and you will probably see a lot of women following this trend next summer. The floss or straps are attached to the bikini top and they can be used to make criss-cross designs on the waist. In a nutshell, it's tiny strings wrapping around various parts of the body, crisscrossing here and there and pretty much, everywhere.

2. Tie-Dye Swimsuit

Bored of the same coloured swimsuit? Don't worry, next summer, the tie-dye swimsuit would be one of the most popular trends. Tie-dye swimsuits have been trending for the past two years and they are not going anywhere any time soon. Tie-dye was never actually an option for swimsuit back in the days, but the quirky pattern has since become a trend on the fashion scene, with prominent luxury brands such as Collina Strada, Paco Rabanne, and Prada all using Tie-dye print down the runway the past few fashion seasons.

3. High-neck bikini top and high-waist bikini bottom

High-neck bikini tops and high-waisted bottoms will also be trending next summer. Flattering and beautiful on all body types, high waisted swimsuits can be a great alternative if you're looking for a two-piece bathing suit with a little something extra. High waisted bikini bottoms offer a modest, yet sexy look and they are easy and very comfortable to wear. For certain body types such as hourglass, pear, or diamond body type, where the waist is prominent and the hips are quite wide, a high waisted bikini will actually emphasize your curves in a flattering way. If you're one of these body types, you'll definitely look great in it.

4. One-shoulder swimwear

One-shoulder swimwear has been trending since last year and they are not going anywhere soon as well. The one-shoulder swimwear can make you look attractive as they help to accentuate the neckline and shoulders. The one-shoulder style keeps the swimsuit cool and modern - with this on, you'll definitely stand out at the beach.

5. The knotted Swimsuit

Who doesn't like knotted clothes? I believe no one! The knotted bikini tops look really cool and sassy. The knots can be present at the straps or just one at the front. The bottoms can be knotted at the sides as well. The knotted style is definitely making bikinis and one-pieces a lot more eye-catching, whether they're placed on the bust, waist, or shoulders. They offer a cool yet subtle finishing touch and are quite flattering on several body types.

TULIP

GOUJON LEALAITAGOMOA

Tulip Goujon Lealaitagomoa is a 45-year-old, strong, and independent Pacific Island woman from beautiful Samoa. God is at the centre of everything she does, and she draws self-belief, respect, success, and a strong mindset from daily prayer and self-affirmations. She's a proud advocate of self-love and supporting her community in getting educated about discovering, maintaining, and living a healthy lifestyle. She loves going to church, pushing her limits at the gym, and all things fashion. In her spare time, she likes to draw out designs and work on bringing them to life. She's grateful for the blessing of being able to represent her homeland in different countries through pageantry over these past few years. Currently, she holds the title of Mrs. World Oceania Elite 2021-2022. She's confident in herself and proud to be a hard-working mother, model, and overall queen. She enjoys her life because she feels that being herself is so easy!

The best advice she can give to anyone is never to compare your journey to another's. Everyone moves at their own pace, so it's better to focus on your own moves. She encourages her fellow Pacific and Oceania sisters all over the world to never give up on their dreams. You can be whatever and whoever you want to be. Trust in God, be compassionate, and when you find anything hard to finish, remember the reason why you started. She's filled with gratitude for all those who have supported her go far. Her family- parents, brothers and sisters, beloved children, and friends make her world more bright, and for that, she's thankful.

Cyprian Fruean-Posesione is currently the reigning Ms. Oceania World Universal 2021. Cyprian got her first taste of pageantry back in 1994 when she turned 21 years old and joined Miss Samoa. She has always wanted to showcase her talent and gain confidence in front of people. The next day she was selected to take part in a photoshoot for a magazine to promote Samoa Tourism. Her late grandfather Sala Suivai, saw she had potential with performing and entertaining at family and community functions so he encouraged me to take the opportunity to enter abroad. From there she had discovered her passion on stage within the pageant industry. She entered again in 1995 in the Miss Samoa NZ pageant in New Zealand where she won the talent and traditional wear segment and came 2nd runner up. In 2017 she joined Mrs. Worldwide representing Samoa in Singapore – she made it in the top 10 and won Mrs. Congeniality. Furthermore, in 2018 she represented Samoa in Taiwan at the Lady of Brilliance pageant where she came top 10 for talent and the winner of the Lady of Charity title. Her National Director and Designer is none other than Tito Stowers.

LEILA

LOEI

Leila Loei sparkles for every woman and girl. She is a proud single mom to two children, an entrepreneur, a mentor. She regularly volunteers her time with a number of Not-for-Profit organisations in Brisbane, promoting awareness and engaging with the community on the salient issue of DV Prevention.

Leila has been an amazing success story for a migrated woman. After completion of her Bachelor Degree in Food Science & Technology Engineering. In 2003, Leila decided to come to Australia to follow up and achieve her dreams to become a successful woman, so she completed her double Master Degrees in Environmental Health and Health Science. In 2018, she returned to study to finish her Australia Migration Law & Practice. In 2006, Leila was employed in a government sector, however after experiencing so many years of discrimination, bullying, and sexual harassment in her workplace. Leila has decided to open a new chapter in her career by establishing her own business consulting company to achieve her goals and take control of her life completely in 2021 in the middle of COVID 19, the Global Pandemic crisis.

Besides all, she loves fashion and acting, so she is a professional, experienced international model and published in magazines globally. She has walked numerous fashion shows in Australia and overseas and is a charity advocate. Being part of fundraising charity events for vulnerable people such as children and women, empowering and motivating her to achieve her goals.

Leila, as Ms. Australia World Universal Ambassador 2021, Ms. Persia Universal Elegance 2019, and Ms. Galaxy Australia 1st runner up 2019, strongly believes that each and every single one of us has a voice. We all have a story (or stories) to tell, which consists of our experiences and locations, our hopes and aspirations, and how they have shaped us into who we are and how we live our lives, be it by choice or by circumstance. Her platform is domestic violence awareness and education for street children. She has experienced Domestic Violence for so many years of her life by staying in a toxic relationship. However, she decided to finish any Domestic Violence against herself and her kids since 2016. She has built and established a primary school for no socioeconomic children in Iran to give them the opportunity to study to follow up her father's legacy and dream.

Leila would Dare herself to improve upon and build her self-confidence by venturing outside her comfort zone; She would Dare herself to contact people and help them when they require to be helped. She would Dream of partnering and collaborating with the UN WOMEN that share her vision of supporting and helping others, particularly children and women. She is a survivor from a men-dominated society to show all women around the world to be proud of their identity, values themselves of who they are, and believe in. She believes in herself, and she will be successful at accomplishing her Dares, Dreams, and goals.

Challenging and developing herself feels like the sky is the limit! Bottom line, She Is A Proud Survivor and Warrior Of Domestic Violence.

SANDY

NAND

Sandy Nand was originally born in Fiji, but she moved to New Zealand to bring up a family. She is a career-oriented person, while she also focuses on her family as well. She works for a Finance company but recently broke all the social norms by speaking up against Domestic Violence - she's passionate about assisting women and men in abusive relationships and breast cancer fundraising. She loves fashion because she uses fashion to portray her message to her followers.

DIANA OMUOYO

Ms. New Zealand Universal 2021, Diana Omuoyo currently resides in Sydney, Australia, where she works as an IT professional. She is an avid advocate for Women in Tech and has a keen interest in reducing inequality and promoting Inclusion in STEM related fields.

Diana has been instrumental in facilitating discussions on Diversity, Leadership, Mental & Financial Wellbeing. She stays active as a community leader by volunteering with various local and global programs supporting STEM/ESTEAM, Inclusion, Quality Education, and Entrepreneurship.

Since winning the title, she has volunteered as a mentor with the PFC Founders program - a UNSW initiative for emerging entrepreneurs and participated as a STEM mentor with Summer of Tech NZ - supporting University students in Aotearoa.

She is currently working with ColabL - an initiative focussed on career-based mentoring for the underrepresented communities. She also continues to serve as an active fellow for Team4Tech - a Silicon Valley-based nonprofit with the mission of improving the quality of education for underserved learners around the world through technology solutions.

Her mission and aspirations are to be a positive influence and encourage others to do the same because she has learned from experience that every act of kindness makes a difference to another.

COLE

NOCERA

Cole has been in the pageant industry for six years, competing in many National pageants and even competing internationally in 2019. Cole believes in exuding your best self regardless of what society has to say as we deserve the space to do so, therefore paving the way for many alike to shine your brightest.

Cole works as a Youth homelessness caseworker inside the refuges for young people across NSW. She prides herself on her work in trauma-informed practice and strives to educate many around trauma, in particular childhood trauma. Outside of this, she runs a small business in cosmetic tattooing as a way of self-care.

She is also heavily involved in community projects with homeless youth, women who have experienced Domestic Violence, and women who have come out of incarceration with the Women's Justice Network. As a new community project, Cole has started facilitating the "Love Bites" program inside high schools educating year ten students on family and domestic violence, sex and relationships. She sees this as an important bridging to our youth and planting seeds on having positive relationships, language, and recognising red flags.

Cole was nominated for the 7news community service award and was a finalist out of 100s in NSW for the 7news NSW health bettering communities award 2020 and 2021.

EM

HARDWICKE

It took Em 40 years and the birth of her son to be truly comfortable with herself, to love the person she is, and to be proud of her achievements and successes in her life. It is this passion, determination, and hard work that has got her through some tough times and has given her the strength and courage to take on some big dreams and physical challenges over the years.

"When I chose to enter Ms. Australia World Universal, I wanted my journey to mean something, and I wanted to make a difference," Em said.

"As a sisterhood, we support Cancer Research and the search for a cure to bring an end to this hideous disease. As an individual, I support and advocate for anti-bullying and suicide prevention, a cause that I am incredibly passionate about and one that has very personal meaning to me."

Em said for her, like for so many others, 2020 was a year never to be forgotten as her family, along with the local community, battled the Snowy Mountains bushfires in January and COVID in March, which saw her stood down from her job and ultimately made redundant, leaving her without work and her family not knowing what was next. Knee surgery also forced Em to give up one of her true loves, long-distance running.

Not one to let a setback deter Em from achieving her goals, she refocused, found a new job she absolutely loves, and got back to the real passions in her life and, it seems, being crowned Ms. Australia was just the start of things for Em in 2021.

Her dedication, passion and support of anti-bullying and suicide prevention has also seen Em be announced as a Bully Zero HIRO and a cast member of Adventure All Stars, an international television series, broadcast in 25 countries, that successfully combines entertainment with philanthropy.

"I have been amazed and inspired by the opportunities that have presented themselves this year," says Em.

"Every opportunity gives me another chance to support Bully Zero and to help them create a world free from bullying. It also gives me the unique opportunity to show people that you really can achieve anything regardless of age, status, gender, physical ability and that we really are only restricted by the limitations we place on ourselves."

Bully Zero HIROs – this is Bully Zero's national volunteer program that draws on the voices, passion, and energy of those who are passionate about putting a stop to bullying in their community.

Bullying impacts over two million Australians every year; whether it's young people at school, employees in the workplace, or all ages online, many face the challenging impacts of becoming targets of bullying behaviours.

Together, HIROs raise awareness, educate the community, raise funds, and share a message of hope.

Adventure All-Stars features real-life cast members undertaking an unforgettable journey to a secret location for six days of fun and adventure. Adventure All-Stars is the ultimate road trip where TV viewers get to experience incredible locations through the eyes of an engaging and socially conscious cast.

As a cast member, Em is required to raise funds and awareness on behalf of her chosen charity, Bully Zero. Em's goal is to raise a minimum of $10,000 to help Bully Zero bring an end to bullying and to create an Australia where we all feel safe, valued and respected.

"This is such a special and unique opportunity, I couldn't pass it up, and who knows, my participation and my fundraising may just help save the life of a young person struggling with being bullied and who believes their only way out is to take their own life. I will take anything thrown at me, if it means the difference between life and death."

Em plans to continue her community work well into 2022 with her continued support of Bully Zero and Tour de Cure. "There are a lot of exciting things coming up, and I am honoured and proud to be a part of two such amazing organisations that make a difference in the lives of so many people. I take my title seriously. Being Ms. Australia is not just about the title, the sash, or the crown; it's about how I can make a difference in my community. It's also about being a role model for other women and young girls and showing them that anything is possible; you just need to believe that it is."

JODIE-MAREE

HUDSON

Jodie-Maree Hudson is 31 years old, and she has always had a passion for helping others. She joined the Army when she was 17 years old to serve her country and help her community.

Unfortunately, due to being injured while on exercise, she was medically discharged in 2020. During her career, she achieved a lot – in fact, in 2016, she received a soldiers medallion for exemplary service.

She would love to help show young girls and women that they can achieve anything they put their minds to, no matter how big or small it may be.

She recently learned to walk again after an injury she sustained during exercise in the Army. Doctors told her that she would need to find something that does not involve moving around or moving too far from the bed. She's now volunteering at the RSL, which she was told less than 12 months ago she would never be able to do.

She still struggles with pain and movement most days; however, she finds trying to stay active and always stay positive is the key. She's currently studying a nursing course, and she hopes on completion that she will be able to continue to help people within her community.

LEONIE THOMAS

Leonie Thomas was recently crowned Ms. Australia Elite at the recent Ms. Australia NZ Oceania World Universal Pageant and is excited to be representing Australia in 2022 for her chance to WIN the Ms. World/Ms. World Elite title.

Leonie is a qualified youth worker and welfare officer who founded an award-winning not-for-profit social enterprise. In 2012 she won the Australasian Housing Institute Award for one of the programs she developed that saw people from low-income households socially reconnect not just to service providers but the community as a whole.

She advocates on behalf of Parents Beyond Breakup as well as Youth Homelessness/Homelessness and Lupus as well as a variety of other causes.

She is a believer in the phrase, "the actions of one when supported by many can create positive change" and loves the concept of people helping people.

Leonie is a Brand Ambassador for Silk Oil Of Morocco – an Australian Hair Care & Beauty Range. She has worked as an extra on various TV shows including All Saints, Packed to The Rafters, Home and Away, and more recently Doctor Doctor as well as being featured in East West 101 among others. She has dabbled in modelling on and off since she was 17.

She has also attended various events as a guest speaker/keynote spokesperson at Zonta International, Probus, White Ribbon Day, Youth Homelessness, and Lupus and she has appeared on the Morning Show. Leonie ran a support group for people with various autoimmune diseases for nearly 5 years and is extremely passionate about the causes she chooses to align herself with.

WORLD'S BEST DRESSED

Proudly brought to you by MS Entertainment Network – the first-ever World's Best Dressed is officially coming to Australia in 2022.

World's Best Dressed aims to bring together beauty queens, fashionistas, entrepreneurs, and stunning models from all over the world. World's Best Dressed is an amazing event where fashion, pageantry, and the elite members of the community will come together as one. World's Best Dressed honours men and women of distinction who will be selected for their accomplishments, achievements, services, excellence, and fashion sense.

The first-ever World's Best Dressed is officially coming to Australia in 2022.

The AGSA is a ceremony aimed at showcasing beauty queens who have made the most outstanding contributions to the pageant industry during the year.

To provide integrity in the judging of the categories, National Directors were invited to nominate beauty queens who have competed in their respective pageant systems in the specified categories. The ceremony was brought to you by MS Entertainment Network in collaboration with StarCentral Magazine.

For 2021, each National Director will be able to nominate their own champions from their respective pageant systems and then award their champions during the AGSA ceremony.

The 2021 AGSA will officially be held on December 26, 2021 at Dockside Darling Harbour.
